The estates devolved eventually upon the last surviving sister of Sir Robert, Mary Pye, who died unmarried in 1774, devising them to her first cousin, General Severne, for life, remainder to her first cousin, (once removed,) the Rev Richard Watkins. General Severne inherited on her decease, and died himself in 1787, aged eighty-nine, when the property came to the Watkins's. Charles Watkins, son and heir of the devisee, Richard, died s.p. in 1812, having cut off the entail, and settled the property for life on his uncle, the Rev. John Watkins with remainder to Henry John Pye, esq.. son and heir of the poet laureate On the death of Mr. Watkins, Mr. Pye succeeded accordingly, and is now the representative of the family. (See Burke's Commoners, vol. i. p. 351.)
